

Superintendent Doris Ofosua Agyemang

Superintendent Doris Ofosua Agyemang was recruited into the Ghana Immigration Service in March 1991 and had work with different department with the organization.

2010 to 2012 she was the only female selected to join the men to embark on a peacekeeping mission in Liberia. Due to her leadership skills she was among the officers who served with the UNMIL and acted as the Head of the Advisory team. Was instrumental in the preparation of the Equal Opportunity hand book for the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalisation (BIN) now Liberia Immigration Service.

Doris is now the focal person for the Immigration Ladies Association (IMMILAC) She is one of the women leaders who had the passion to promote gender parity within the service and through her a lot of the women have been empowered socially, physically, emotionally and professionally.

Within the community she has assisted a lot of girls in their education and also help build the capacity of women in skills base handy works. others take up trade and it has been very successful. She always try to make a huge impact wherever she find herself with the idea of getting women along. In her community she is seen as a mother who patiently listen attentively, advised or encourage when the need arise .

She is one person who always challenge women to be firm at all time amidst all odds till the storm is over. Her vision is to see that one day women will be able to enjoy all their rights without any impediments.

She holds an Executive Masters in Business Administration IBM - India, Masters in Gender, Peace and Security at KAIPTC, Bachelor of Business Administration, and Mgt option at the Valley View University.